Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 8.—"Universal service in the industrial army of the United States" is today added by Col. Roosevelt to his recommendation of compulsory universal military training in America.

"Yes, I would go further," declared the colonel to me after commenting on the need for something like the Swiss system to train men in the United States in the use of arms for defensive purposes. "I believe in universal compulsory service in peace no less than universal service in war. I would have every man of military age serve at least a year in a great industrial army!"

"Do you mean," I asked, "that the sons of the rich would be obliged to become dirty-handed laborers for a year?"

"That is exactly what I mean," the colonel replied. He went on to explain that he would like to see Vincent Astor and J. P. Morgan's sons working on the scows that take New
